

Dodd Group's Stockport Property Care Division have built a successful working partnership with Manchester City Football Club. Tasked with refurbishing the club's dugout areas, our Stockport team was required to replace the substitutes seating with new. Instead of taking the redundant seating to landfill, Stockport Property Care sourced a new owner for the seats; Audley Football Club in Staffordshire. Audley Football Club Manager, Mr Wayne Smith, said "we were in need of some new seats for our club dugout, and they don't come any better than this for a grassroots club that relies heavily on local support. The strange thing is that my players will now actually want to be substitutes so that they can sit on seats which the likes of Sergio Agüero and Vincent Kompany once sat upon. This gesture really is greatly appreciated" Well done to the Stockport team for demonstrating their commitment to corporate social responsibility in such an environmentally sensitive manner.
